Installation Guide

Slide the protector out of its packaging and keep it in that orientation.

Align the front edge of the protector with the end of the boot carpet and simply install in that position.

The in-built velcro hook strip will connect to the boot carpet and keep the protector firmly in position.

This is the correct installed position.

Simply flip the protector into its operative position when protection is needed.

Don’t forget it’s dual purpose.......

The protector can be unfolded in the boot, this exposes its grippy under surface, which will greatly assist in stopping items from sliding around when driving.
